
COURSE DESCRIPTION

Students will study the fundamental philosophy, form and practice of meditation. Each experiential class will primarily consist of guided or silent meditation practice, but will also include class discussion and lecture. Covering the basic principles of posture, breathing, attention, concentration and awareness, the intention of this course is to empower and inspire TCM students to continue a lifelong, rewarding relationship with "just sitting". Students will be studying the traditional Taoist images of yin organs, visualizing five channel depths pertaining to each of the six meridians, exploring the five element system, deepening our understanding of yin channels utilizing the ying qi cycle and its connection with spirit cultivation, and gaining exposure to human organs by studying pictorals. For those who are willing, the promise of this course and this art form is the cultivation of mind and heart. It is by way of such cultivation that a doctor may become what the ancients termed a "Superior Physician".

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Out-of-Class Work

To successfully complete the program, students need to plan studying a minimum of 2 hours out-of-class for each academic in-class hour; and half an hour out-of-class for each hour of clinical training.

Develop a daily meditation practice at home

30%: Participation in class discussions

30%: Daily journaling to be checked for compliance, not content

30%: 2 written papers, 1-2 pages each

10%: Punctual attendance

GRADING SCALE: 100-90% A, 89-80% B, 79-70% C, 69% and below F

SPECIAL NOTES

We will explore body, mind, and spirit:

1. relaxing stored tension by developing focus geared at letting go in the body,
2. releasing habitual thoughts and emotions rooted either in the past or future by generating single-pointed concentration on these patterns, and
3. cultivating insight through the practice of mindfulness breathing.

In practice, our commitment to the present moment is strong, our compassionate hearts open, and our dedication to the well-being of all beings yields peace.

*Please bring a zafu, mat, or pillow on which to sit for every class

Professionalism and Full and Prompt Attendance: To pass any course (separate from academic performance) all students must meet requirements for professionalism in coursework. Professionalism includes full and prompt attendance: Students who miss more than 2 class meetings in a 10-week course will earn an F in that course. Additionally, students who arrive more than 15 minutes to class or leave class before it ends will be marked tardy. Two tardies equal one absence. NOTE: Students who leave and return to class late from a break or leave during the class (especially if this is repeated) or who disrupt the class in other ways may be referred to the Academic Dean for professionalism.
