
COURSE DESCRIPTION

This class focuses on using all aspects of the human experience- physical, emotional, behavioral, cultural, sensorial, mental- in order to achieve long-lasting balance on all levels. It investigates, among other things, the effects of different ways of thinking, the impact of stress factors, and conditioning, and their relation to the immune system and the imbalance of the body and disease. Students will learn about and explore many age-old tools which have been used in various traditions to promote health on a holistic level: yoga, tai chi, meditation, chanting, relaxation, hypnosis, visual imagery, biofeedback, cognitive-behavioral therapies. Students will understand the modern scientific research that is beginning to explain the biochemical mechanisms behind these ancient modalities from various traditions.

SPECIAL NOTES

Professionalism and Full and Prompt Attendance: To pass any course (separate from academic performance) all students must meet requirements for professionalism in coursework. Professionalism includes full and prompt attendance: Students who miss more than 2 class meetings in a 10-week course will earn an F in that course. Additionally, students who arrive more than 15 minutes to class or leave class before it ends will be marked tardy. Two tardies equal one absence. NOTE: Students who leave and return to class late from a break or leave during the class (especially if this is repeated) or who disrupt the class in other ways may be referred to the Academic Dean for professionalism.
